

Competitive Manufacturing Initiative Cluster Program

Engaged People + Better Process = Sustainable Business Growth

Money from the government to support Australian manufacturing sounds too good to be true but it is true and it is available through the Competitive Manufacturing Program

The Competitive Manufacturing Program is a nationally recognized and certified competency based program, largely based on lean manufacturing principles. The program is aimed at improving business outcomes by engaging frontline workers in the process of improving the competitiveness of manufacturing businesses

In all states the program is funded for Certificate IV which is suited to supervisors, team leaders or future leaders. Participants are eligible for funding if they have not received government funding for a training program over the last 7 years including apprenticeships or do not have an Australian tertiary qualification

LEAN Rt delivers Certificate III and IV training in-house for single companies or Certificate IV as a public cluster program.

The public cluster program offers the following advantages

- Participants learn from both the trainer and their peers
- Training is delivered on-site and includes site visits so participants see first hand the challenges and the successes of each others implementations

Individual coaching is offered to each trainee to ensure that they achieve maximum benefit from their participation in the program

This program is aimed at long term and sustainable business benefits and will be run over a two year period

Government subsidized Business Improvement

On-Site coaching to assist integration and application of learning

Assessments are based on workplace projects aligned with your business strategy

The program engages and equips participants with practical continuous improvement skills based on Lean principals

Nationally recognized Certificate IV training delivering real business outcomes

Sustainable Business Improvement

The key ingredient of any change program is the alignment of the initiative to the broader company strategy and other improvement activities and projects.

The engagement of senior leadership is essential. Our program includes sessions with the manufacturing leadership of participating companies so that managers understand what the program is capable of delivering and how they can use the program to drive their agendas.

Numbers are limited to 18 participants. Please call so we can jointly assess the opportunities this program presents for your business.
